Students

Our students comprise lay Catholics from all walks of life as well as candidates preparing for religious profession, or in training for the ordained ministry. The student community is a spiritual family of men and women, professionals and retirees, people across all age groups learning together.

Although hailing from different backgrounds, they converge at CTIS in the shared calling to equip themselves for the apostolate of Christ, and represent the rich diversity God has gifted to the Church in Singapore.

CTIS students believe that growth in theological understanding is important for living the Christian Tradition. They are convinced that the good practice of religion needs to be supported and informed by good theology. A solid intellectual appreciation of the Christian faith not only enables students to link faith with life; it allows the living Tradition to be shared for the life of others, and guides them towards the transformative vision of the Kingdom of God. Despite busy schedules, CTIS students commit themselves to a disciplined way of learning about God, the Church, and their mission as followers of Christ.

Academics

Why study Theology?

Theology (from the Greek theos, “God” and logos, “meaning”) holds a central place in the life of the Catholic Church. With theology Christians develop greater understanding of their own faith and explain that faith to others. Education in theology is indispensable for evangelisation, which is to bring the good news of Jesus Christ to the society in which we live.

Catholic theological tradition has explored important issues such as the nature of God, revelation in Jesus Christ, the nature of the person, human identity and existence, our origins and destiny, making life choices, the relationship between the Church and the world, and God’s mysterious and abiding presence in the Holy Spirit. The discipline of theology can be organised around broad categories: Scripture Studies, Doctrinal or Systematic Theology, Moral Theology, Church History, and Pastoral Theology.

Educational Principles

The Church highly esteems the growth of the human intellect as a natural complement to spiritual development. Christians learn to connect their own religious experience with knowledge of doctrine and the scriptures. St. Anselm of Canterbury described theology as “faith seeking understanding” - adopting the spirit of this dictum, CTIS provides the educational space and curriculum for students to seek a mature understanding of the faith they profess. In partnership with the St. Francis Xavier Major Seminary, CTIS structures its courses for candidates for ordination and the religious life as well as lay students. In addition to contact time with lecturers and in-class study, students take responsibility for their own learning journey, keeping up with course readings, submitting written assignments, and allocating sufficient time for self-study, research, and project work.

Students are encouraged to work in groups to reap the benefits that learning in a community brings. CTIS recommends that students assimilate their learning into personal reflection and spiritual direction, to fruitfully unite religious knowledge with the growth of faith and life-action.

Entry Requirements

A minimum academic qualification of GCE-A level or equivalent is required to apply for CTIS programmes. Further suitability will be determined through the application process. Students are expected to be fluent in either English or Mandarin. Class instruction and examinations will be carried out in the respective programmes in these languages. Each applicant is required to obtain a letter of recommendation for study at CTIS from their respective parish priest or local Ordinary.

Course Credit & Grading

Credit

CTIS programmes confer a certification after the completion of a prescribed list of subjects or courses. Each course has a credit value to indicate its work load. One credit (cr) corresponds to 16 lecture-hours. Lecture-hours allocated to a course do not include the time needed for assigned take-home reading and self-directed study, which the student must factor in when deciding how many courses to take per semester.

Lecture-hours correspond to time spent in class engaged in the activities associated with the respective course. These activities include but are not limited to: group work, team research projects, practicum, presentations, seminar or tutorial work, and lecturer-directed examination preparation. The time taken for the final examination of a course is not included in its lecture-hours.

Grading

All students undergoing assessment in each unit will be graded using the following table.

A	90% and above
B	80 to 89%
C	70 to 79%
D	60 to 69%
E	40 to 59% (Fail, eligible for re-examination)
F	39% and below (Fail, required to retake subject)
